01 Wildlife adventure in Karnataka

Karnataka, blessed by nature, is a wonderful destination for all types of travellers. If you are ever on the lookout for an adventure in the state, then you must check out its wildlife. Here are some of the most important national parks in the state.

02 Bandipur National Park

A national park that is full of natural wonders, Bandipur is quite a famous national park in the state of Karnataka. This renowned national park has the second highest population of tigers, so your chances of seeing one is high. It is part of the Nilgiri Biosphere Reserve, so nature is at its finest. A great trip is guaranteed.

03 Nagarhole National Park

A tiger reserve, Nagarhole National Park is an absolute beauty. Elephants, tigers, leopards, chital, and more animals can be spotted here. Located on the foothills of the Western Ghats, this national park used to be the hunting grounds of kings. The national park is home to rosewood, sandalwood, and teak trees.

04 Kudremukh National Park

Chikkamagaluru district's Kudremukh National Park is a wonder of wonders. A national park that is fascinating to bits, it is actually still quite undiscovered. This beautiful national park is an amazing destination for trekkers, with trails taking you to multiple peaks in the region. The lush green landscape will mesmerize you, and the best time to experience this place is during the monsoon season.
