

OPEN TO OPINION

Let math not come in the way of building a steel flyover in Bangalore

Karnataka CM Siddaramaiah has decided that since 218 people want a bridge in the city, his government will go ahead with it.

POLITICS | 4-minute read | 18-10-2016

 Print | Close

TS SUDHIR @iamtssudhir

At a time when examination papers ask Class 9 students to name Virat Kohli's girlfriend, this question would not be out of place.

Karnataka chief minister Siddaramaiah thinks 218 (which is 73 per cent of 299) is the correct answer and hence has decided that since 218 people want the 6.7km long steel flyover in Bangalore, his government will go ahead with it. Never mind that 8,000 people turned up on Sunday to form a human chain between Basaveshwara Circle and Mekhri Circle, to say #NoSteelFlyover.

